A NEW IRISH MOVEMENT. JOHN KELLY AND JUDGE O'CONOR. We learn from undoubted authority that a powerful novement is now on foot among the best and most influential representatives of Irish opinion and interests in this city, having for its object to rid themselves of Mr. John Kelly and the odium which attaches to his insatiable demands for "more." It is felt that persons of the Kelly class not only foster and extend. but go far to justify the prescriptive dectrines of the Native American party. The charges against Mr. Kelly are many and serious; and the name of Charles O'Conor, in the front rank of accusers, will not help the defendant in the eyes of any intelligent or honest jury. That all shades of Milesian sentiment are bitterly opposed to the political monopoly which Mr. Kelly claims, may be judged from the fact that on this one point, if on no other, John McKeon Col. Doheny, Bartlett Smith, James Sandford and John Dolan, can all act in concert; while vigorous and influential workers like Wm. P. Powers, Alderman Healey, John Reynolds, and other Democrats of the more popular school, are anxious to retain Mr. Kelly in Congress and so save their many hundred friends in the Custom-House and elsewhere, who must otherwise be removed, to make room for the appointees of whomsoever may succeed to Mr. Kelly's vacated seat. The friends of Thos. Kevlin, late member of the Legislature and candidate for the Senate, are very active in this movement and with good backers. The very justly denounce the bad faith of Kelly in giving his support to John C. Mather, though pledged by all ties of gratitude and many public promises to the support of Mr. Kevlin. Still more dangerous than this, from the influence which it wields in that quarter where Mr. Kelly is most anxious to stand approved, is the opposition organized by the indignant friends of Judge O'Cenor. No political trickery within our knowledge was ever meaner, more subtle and persistent, than that by which "Honest John" sought to oust Mr. O'Conor, in favor of one Thomas Boese of the Fourteenth Ward, who boasts that he "has shaped Mr. Kelly's political course," and who nevertheless has long been suspected and denounced as a member of the Know-Nothing Order. Very certain it is that, being a "Native," he is doing noble service for his party in again making Kelly come forward as the original "Oliver Twist" of Irisl politics. That Mr. Boese, as Mr. Kelly's candidate, was formally withdrawn, soon after the appearance of a hostile article by T. F. Meagher, is very true; and there were present at that withdrawal as witnesses, Messrs. Richard O'Gorman. John R. Brady, Thomas F. Meagher, and the two parties chiefly interested. That Mr. Boese, not content with this, arranged, in Mr. Kelly's name, to secure the Fourteenth Ward delegation for Mr. O'Conor, is also true; and further made an appointment to introduce Mr. O'Conor to the five Ward dele gates having charge of the Nominating Committee This introduction took place, and four out of five pledged themselves-three personally in presence of Judge Brady and Malcolm Campbell, and one by letter-to put Mr. O'Conor's friends on the Committee. Secure in this, Judge O'Conor took no further trouble; but, when the names of the Committee were published in The Sunday Atlas (the nomination to be made next night), he found that Kelly had cheated him, the Committee being made up of its bitterest enemies, and ten out of the fifteen belonging to the Society of Regulars, and holding places in the Custom House subject to Mr. Kelly's good pleasure. Astounded at this, Judge O'Conor, accompanied by his friends, Messrs, Meagher and Campbell, waited on the Collector early next morning-told his story, and two of the witnesses were present. "Are you willing, Mr. Schell," he asked, " considering our former relations, and my steady support of Democratic principles, that your patronage should be used against me in this infamous, because presumptuous and treacherous, way !" The Collector was silent for a long time, and at last replied: " Are you good friends with John Keily?" "I was, Sir," said Mr. O'Conor, one of the warmest friends he ever had. But as matters stand now, he seems my only enemy." I am sorry," answered the great Augustus, falling back in his chair; "but, I can do nothing for you?" Had Judge O'Conor and his friends know that Mr. Kelly had been there half an hour before them, and pledged the Collector to opposition, they might have saved themselves some trouble and not a little humiliation. That night the present candidate was adopted-certainly an infinite improvement on Mr. Boese; but the manner of his nomination, and this little glimpse behind the scenes, may be new to many ardent admirers of John Oliver

Twist Kelly. THE MAINE ELECTION.

Correspondence of The N. Y. Tribune.

MAINE, Sept. 17, 1858. In the Maine Election the battle has everywhere been fought by the Democrats in this State, on the ground that they agreed with the Republicans. agreed with them on the tariff, on the fishing bounties, on all measures appertaining to the material interests of the State, and professed as much opposition to the extension of Slavery as any body. Not the first attempt has been made by them anywhere in this State to defend either Lecompton or the Administra-tion policy in regard to Kansas. On the contrary they were entirely silent about it where they did not condemn it, and all came out in favor of admitting Ransas at once as a Free State, declaring that the contest in that Territory was ended,

We have here the most significant testimony to the sourdness of the public sentiment in the North and the popularity of Republican dectrines, as well as the most ncouraging omens for its future. For if the Republicans are not to be assailed or condemned for their positions or doctrines, but are only to be met by the claim that the men who oppose them are as good Republicans as the Republicans themselves, there seems o be nothing left but for everybody to join the Republican ranks. If professions are to be believed, we may esfely say that so far as Maine is concerned, the Republican party has made Northern sentiment ananimous or existing political issues. J. S. P.
